

NIWOT HILLS

Welcome to Niwot Hills, a stunning neighborhood situated in the shadow of the Continental Divide on the southern rim of a quaint Boulder County village. With its rolling countryside and breathtaking mountain vistas, Niwot Hills offers a softer, rural aspect to country living surrounded by public and private open space.

Village of Niwot

Small-town atmosphere tinged with urban sophistication characterizes the charming village of Niwot, acclaimed for its extraordinary restaurants and antiques. Niwot's peaceful, historic downtown is a convenient ten minutes away from the shops of Boulder and West Longmont. The schools are among the best in Boulder County and two are within walking distance.

Neighborhood

Gentle, sculpted terrain typifies the graciousness of the Niwot Hills neighborhood. A dry-stacked Colorado buff wall with a plethora of native grasses and trees, delight homeowners and guests upon arrival. Open areas lush with indigenous flora, birdsong and tree-lined cul-de-sacs preserve the ease of car flow and keep noise to a minimum. The Niwot Hills Trail, a lovely pedestrian path along the western border offers a place to unwind and connect with nature.

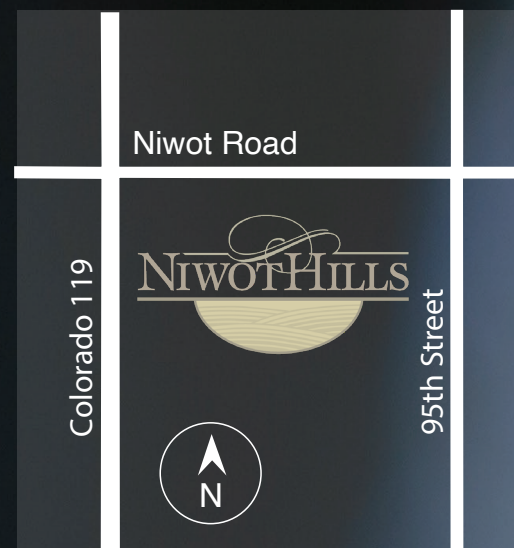

Architecture to Mirror the Landscape

Understated, yet elegant custom homes exist in harmony with the area's natural surroundings and expansive open space. Native resources and the rich palette of Colorado are featured prominently in the building materials, outdoor living areas and cascading rooflines of this diverse group of luxurious residences.
